Martin's Message

Before Thanksgiving, my wife, Helene and I went to Holland for some family visits and to check on the lily bulb harvest, packing, and shipping to the USA. The market for lily bulbs is depressed mainly because of the worldwide recession and overproduction. But, an additional problem that started showing up a few years ago; a "new" virus that can be disastrous for the cut-flower grower under

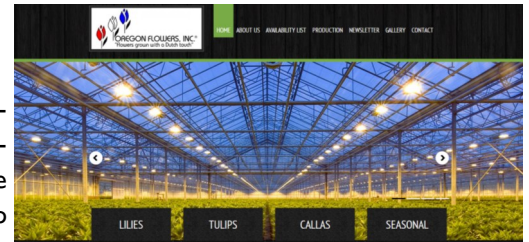

Tulips:

With tulips season fast approaching, the website has up to date pictures of the varieties that will be available from mid December through Mother's Day. For details about when specific varieties will be available, contact your sales associate and they will be able to give you an approximate time frame.

Must see section:

Be sure to check out the

about us section. This is not only a great read, but it leads to the "more about our history" tab. I do not want to give it all away, but it is the secret section of the website :)

We hope that with the updates to the website we are able to assist you in a more timely and helpful manner.

Enjoy!

stressful growing conditions. The bulb growers are working hard to "clean up" the stock, but in these difficult economic times it is not easy to do. For our company it is now more than ever extremely important to work with reliable, consistent, and conscientious bulb growers and suppliers to get you, our customer, the varieties and quality that you expect from Oregon Flower Inc.

While in Holland, we also enjoyed many family visits with the highlight being my mother-in-laws 90th birthday party.

I hope you will be able to spend time with family and friends as well this Holiday season.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Martin
